Some Figures That Give an Idea of the Great Good the Workers Do in the Slums—How the Movement Was Started by a Woman—Ploneers in America.

If you will go to the busy headquarters of the Salvation Army and ask the field secretary for his annual report you will astonished at the work its members are ing in the country. You will find that nearly 12,000,000 persons attended services in their halls last year, which of course does not include the other millions they reached in the street-millions that no other denomination can get at. You will find that last year they furnished more than 12,000,000 meals to hungry men and supplied 4,000,000 beds to homeless wanderers. You will find that they visited and assisted 100,000 families who were in distress. You will find that they distributed 600 tons of coal and 122,000 pounds of ice. You will find that these poke bonneted slum angels gathered in 13,000 homeless children and placed them in the snug, warm rescue homes the army manages to maintain with the nickels and dimes its workers pick up by passing the tambourine.

The army is doing a grand settlement work in the slums of the large cities. A body of women in plain gingham dresses and aprons will rent a room in the worst tenemen house they can find, clean it up, put in simple furniture and then begin to "neighbor" among the pitiful people about them. They nurse the sick, teach the well better ways of living, conduct sewing and cooking plasses, plan fresh air excursions for sickly little ones, take care of neglected children whose mothers are away at work and shroud the dead. This is one way of using the dime you put into the tambourine. But there are still other things that they do with it.

The army owns nearly 3,000 acres of farm land, divided into colonies, at Fort Romie, Cal.; Fort Amity, Col., and Fort Herrick, Ohio. The settlement workers in the slums gather up families who are having a hard time of it and encourage them to make a new try at life in the open air. The family is settled on a good piece of land with the privilege of buying it later. Many of those located in this unique way are making money as chicken raisers, truck gardeners, &c.

A woman first thought of reaching the people of the slums by means of the Salvation Army. She was the wife of a preacher and saw that the good message her husband was trying to impart was going over the heads of the people of the great submerged under world of London.

going over the heads of the people of the great submerged under world of London. She saw that the big churches with their organs and orderly equipment remained vacant of the poor. She conceived the idea of going on the street and making a noise to attract eyes and ears that had long been dulled to thoughts of higher living. The level then struck is still beyond the pale of ordinary church work. This woman was the wife of William Booth, and their first service was held in an old tent in a burying ground in Whitechapel, London, on Sunday, July 2, 1865.

Commander Ballington Booth, son of Gen. Booth, left the Salvation Army shortly after he came to the United States and organized a similar work under the name of Volunteers of America. His wife, who was Miss Maude Charlesworth, is a woman of aristocratic family and excellent education, who left a luxurious home to become a worker in the ranks. Once in Sweden she wished to attract the students of the University of Upsala to her meetings. They were a ribald set, eager for some new sport, and she knew if an appeal were made direct to them they would doubtless either come and break up her meeting or not come at all. So she skillfully worded the big invitation posters in Latin and had them placed conspicuously over the ofty. It was a tribute to the learning of the students and caught their fancy at once. As a result 1,600 of the 2,000 students attended the meeting and gave her an arguery respectful hearing.

the students and caught their fancy at once. As a result 1,800 of the 2,000 students attended the meeting and gave her an orderly, respectful hearing.

A much different method was that adopted by a young girl in London. This worker had been converted from the slums and wanted to reach the people of her class, even at the expense of her own dignity. She arrayed herself in eccentric style, with streamers of varied hues floating from her dress and hair, and carried a large placard which read: "I am happy Eliza." She paraded the streets and alleys of the poorer quarters and soon had an immense crowd following her, many of them old friends and associates. She of course led them to the gospel meeting house, where they heard the music and sermon.

The pioneers in the work of the Salvation Army in America were one commissioner and a party of six girls who were sent over by Gen. Booth in 1889. One member of this party, Adjutant Ella Westbrook, is still living. The first service in America was held in an old chair factory in Philadelphia.

Commander Booth Tucker, one of the highest officers of the army, was a Judge on the Queen's Bench in India. He received by chance a copy of the War Cry. He read it and applied for six months leave of absence. He went to London, where he visited Gen. Booth and saw the operations of the army in its campaign against vice. At the end of six months he resigned his position as Judges in India and against vice. At the end of six months he resigned his position as Judge in India and applied for admission to the army as an officer.

He later married the daughter of his commander. This devoted woman, Emma Booth Tucker, was killed in a railroad wreck near Kansas City not long ago. Gen. William Booth, founder and head of the Salvation Army, is still living, and the veteran will visit the United States in March on his way to Japan. His daughter, Eva Booth, is in New York in charge of the work in this country.

CASE AGAINST C. J. LEE PAILS. Philo-Ceitle Society Brought Into It by a Mistake.

The Post Office case against Christopher J. Lee which came before Commissioner Shields some time ago terminated yesterday, The Commissioner, after reviewing the The Commissioner, after reviewing the evidence, decided that the Government failed to show grounds for the charge against Mr. Lee and dismissed the case.

When the matter first came up the account published in The Sun stated that the assents which led up to the court proceedings occurred in the New York Philo-Celtic Seciety. On further investigation it was found that this society had no connection with the case. It also developed during the subsequent examination that the chief witnesses for the prosecution had all had personal differences with Mr. Lee.

NEW ANTI-TRUST BILL. One Similar to the Ohio Law Introduce

ALBANY, Jan. 30.—Assemblyman C. F. Brooks of Erie has introduced an anti-trust bill which is similar to the Valentine antitrust law of Ohio, under which the indict-ments against the Standard Oil Company have been found. Mr. Brooks declares that if the bill is enacted into a law in this State it will stop all abuses by trusts and will give the small dealer an equal chance with the larger concerns. The bill defines a trust as a combination of capital, skill or acts by two or more persons, firms, partnerships, corporations or associations of persons for any or all of the following purposes:

To create or carry out restrictions

To limit or reduce the production or increase or reduce the price of merchandise or any commodity.

To prevent competition in manufacturing, making, fransportation, sale or purchase of merchandise, produce or any commodity. To fix at any standard of figure, whereby its price to any article or commodity of merchandise, produce of commerce intended for sale, barter, use or consumption in the State. To make or enter into or execute or carry out any contracts, obligations or agree-ments of any kind or description by which they shall bind themselves not to sell, dispose of or transport any article or any com modity or any article of trade, use, merchandise, commerce or consumption below a common standard figure or fixed value, or by which they shall agree in any manner by which they shall agree in any manner to keep the price of such article, commodity or transportation between them or themselves and others, so as to directly or indirectly preclude a free and unrestricted competition among themselves or any purchasers or consumers in the sale or transportation of any such article or commodity, or by which they agree to pool, combine or directly or indirectly unite any interests that they may have connected with the sale or transportation of any such article or commodity that its price might in any manner modity that its price might in any manner be affected.

The bill provides as a penalty for any violation a fine of $50 to $500 and imprisonment of one year for each and every offence.

In addition to the criminal and civil penalties provided, any person who shall be injured in his business or property by any other person or corporation, or person or partnership, by reason of anything forbidden by this act, may sue in any court having jurisdiction thereof to recover two-fold the damages by him sustained and the costs of the suit.

ATTACK CANAL SUPT. SEELEY. Franchot's Men Testify That His Adminis tration Was Crooked.

ALBANY, Jan. 30 .- State Superintendent of Public Works Stevens held a public hearing to-day on the application of former Section Superintendent Frank B. Seeley of Lockport for reinstatement. Seeley was removed from office by N. V. V. Franchot in the closing days of the former superin-tendent's term. It is said by the section superintendent's friends that the real cause of his dismissal was his activity as an opponent of the Wadsworth and Franchot forces in the Senatorial and Congressiona forces in the Senatorial and Congressional fight, in western New York last fall. The official explanation is that Seeley was dismissed for the "good of the service." Seeley was a veteran, but his application to the courts for reinstatement on that ground was denied. Superintendent Stevens received his petition for a hearing immediately after assuming office, and the public hearing to-day was the result. Seeley appeared to argue his own case.

Supt. Nicholoy of the western division of the Eric Canal and the men under him who made depositions last December which resulted in Seeley's dismissal were summoned to appear.

resulted in Seeley's dismissal were summoned to appear.

Nicholoy was the first witness. He testified that the reports that Seeley submitted to the department of work done on his section when investigated did not show that results had been accomplished. One report of 155 days labor on canal bridges at Lectront to a sid was found to over at Lockport, he said, was found to cover only work on "replacing a couple of planks." On December 20 last, Nicholoy said he found On December 20 last, Nicholoy said he found Seeley's men idle in Lockport when they were supposed to be working. He did not ask the section superintendent for an explanation, he said. He said further that Charles Seeley, son of the section superintendent, was on the payroll as a watchman for January, February and March, 1906, and he was sure he did no watching. The father's attention was not called to father's attention was not called to he said.

this, he said.

Of one report of forty-three days labor done on Seeley's section Nicholoy declared investigation had shown that the work should have been done by five men in two days. On his trip through section 10 the last time, Nicholoy said, he found only one watchman on duty where there should have been ten. Seeley declares that when his turn comes in the investigation all the charges made against him will be satisfactorily explained. In the afternoon witnesses were sworn in behalf of Seeley who denied that they were permitted to shirk their work or that the practices mentioned by Supt. Nicholoy nad prevailed.

Seeley himself was sworn and made a detailed and circumstantial denial of all the stories of his slack methods.

$83,000 FOR ATTORNEY-GENERAL.

enate Passes the Bill Appropriating That ALBANY, Jan. 30 .- The Senate to-day passed the bill appropriating $83,000 for the passed the bill appropriating $83,000 for the expenses of the Attorney-General's office for the next nine months. This money is to be used for the conduct of the office for that time, and all bills outstanding against the department which date back six years are to be included in the Supply bill.

It has been pointed out by Attorney-General Jackson that never has there been a sufficient sum appropriated for the Attorney-General's office, and each incumbent has permitted the deficit to become larger, so that his successor always had a legacy of unpaid bills.

Canal Superintendent Parker Resigns.

ALBANY, Jan. 30 .- John N. Parker, division superintendent of the eastern division of the Eric Canal in the Department of Public Works, tendered his resignation to Superintendent Stevens of the State Department intendent Stevens of the State Department of Public Works to-day to take effect to-morrow. Superintendent Paker has been eritically ill and his recovery has been alow. Superintendent Stevens has not yet appointed any one in his place. Mr. Parker resides in Schenectady and has for years been the leader of the Republican organisation of that county.

GRAND CENTRAL PETE AGAIN.

POLICE THOUGHT HE WAS DEAD, BUT HE'S STILL ON THE JOB.

Secures His Release—Culprit Swears He'll Pay Him Back, Even if He Has

Grand Central Pete, who in private life is just Peter Lake, was at Police Head-quarters yesterday charged with having obtained $15 by means of his old bunco game from James Mechan, a retired merchant who lives at 860 West End avenue. Pete, who is 73 years old, became acquainted with the police back in 1870, and although he has been in the toils lots of times so little was heard of him in the last few years that Inspector McLaughlin and the Headquarters detectives were positive that he was dead. On the night of December 15 Mr. Meehan, who is 73 years old himself, met a well groomed man of his own age at Eightyfourth street and Park avenue. stranger convinced the merchant that they were old friends, having known each other for many years. Before they parted the stranger told the merchant a hard luck story about expecting an express package and not having $15 to pay the charges. He said he expected a handsome rug from Peru, among other things, and that he would send it to his benefactor as soon as it arrived. As security for the loan the watch, which he said was worth $150. When Mr. Meehan inspected the watch on the following day he found that it was oaded with putty. He went to Police Headquarters and reported the case.

Inspector McLaughlin had him look Inspector McLaughlin had him look over the rogues' gallery and he picked out Grand Central Pete's picture, No. 4802. The inspector told the merchant that it could not have been Pete because he was dead. On Tuesday night Detective Sergents Fogarty and Benoil found Pete at Thirty-seventh street and Ninth avenue. He denied his identity, but when taken to Headquarters he was recognized by a dozen of the men. He finally admitted his identity.

Yesterday afternoon Pete was arraigned in Jefferson Market police court. The Magistrate was about to hold him when Mr. Meehan interrupted the proceedings and asked that the prisoner be allowed to go.

Mr. Meehan interrupted the proceedings and asked that the prisoner be allowed to go.

"He's an old man, your Honor, just my own age," said Ma Meehan, " and I can't bear to have him sent to prison. He may have been a notorious thief, as the police say he is, but still there is some good left in him. He is a bright old man and clever, too, and if I were in business to-day I should like to have a man of his cleverness working for me. I have had a talk with the prisoner and firmly believe that he'll never do anything dishonest again. Although he is seventy-three years old, he is capable of doing some good in the world-and I'll see that he gets a good start in spite of his criminal record."

Pete, who knew about every policeman and detective in the court room, was overcome when he heard the man he robbed begging the Magistrate to let him off, and tears welled up in his eyes. His voice was so choked that he could hardly thank his benefactor. "If somebody had only given me that kind of a deal when I started grafting forty years ago, I wouldn't have been the notorious crook that they call me to-day. I have dropped scores of times in my day, but I never had anybody let up on me. I was a thief, and it was always push me to the limit."

Pete admitted that he had trimmed Mr. Meehan for the $15, and on leaving the court he swore that he would pay it back, even if he had to go out and trim somebody else to get the money. Detectives who know Pete well say that he will keep his word.

COND EMNS ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE.

Secretary Tully Says It Has Retarded the Tully, secretary of the Law Enforcement Society of Brooklyn, has written to Senator John Raines a letter of condemnation of the Anti-Saloon League. In his letter Mr. Tully declares that the Anti-Saloon League has retarded rather than furthered the work of temperance in this State. He adds:

"You are aware that years ago the Law Enforcement Society made strenuous efforts to have the excise law impartially enforced, and thus do away with the evils growing out of the fake hotels and the open Sunday out of the fake hotels and the open Sunday saloon. We were making progress, as the decisions of the courts were in favor of our contentions. This part of our work was then turned over to the Anti-Saloon League. Owing to the utter failure of the league to accomplish the enforcement of the law (not a single hotel or Sunday saloon in Brooklyn or New York having been closed by it) and the disgraceful conditions that now exist, the society has been compelled to again take up this work."
